Oglebay Resort & Conference Center is comprised of 1,700 acres nestled in the beautiful hills of northern West Virginia. The historic property features 36 holes of championship golf, 27 holes of daily-fee golf, and an 18-hole par III course. The championship courses of Oglebay's Speidel Golf Club, designed by Arnold Palmer and Robert Trent Jones, will be hosting the weeklong 2009 West Virginia Open. The courses will also host the Stoney Hollow Tire Amateur Tournament, the WV High School Championship, OVAC sectional events, and are a stop on the Top-Flite junior tour.

Oglebay is truly a special place to learn— interns will be exposed to all types of golf maintenance on a single property. From the championship courses at Speidel Golf Club to the daily-fee courses at Wheeling Park and the Crispin Center, all levels of maintenance can be observed. Oglebay has an expanding internship program and golf maintenance interns will be able to network with other interns in food & beverage, hotel operations, zoo operations, and golf operations. While Oglebay has several golf courses, the interns will be based on the Arnold Palmer and Robert Trent Jones courses at Speidel Golf Club. Interns will be provided on-property housing at no charge and will enjoy discounted or free activities throughout the resort, including golf, tennis, swimming, fishing, and horseback riding.
